KEY Listening Comprehension – '1993 The Trojan Room Coffee Pot'

Hören und herunterladen von "The Trojan Room Coffee Pot", gesendet Freitag, 23.11.2012: Abspielen bis "...and had a cup of coffee from this pot." ~6.30

Example: 0. This programme is from		BBC Learning.
		BBC Radio 4.
	$\boxtimes$	the BBC World Service.
<ol> <li>In 1991, Cambridge scientists were working hard</li> </ol>		at computer companies.
		in computer factories.
	X	on computer technology.
<ol> <li>In the Trojan Room there were two or three</li> </ol>	X	racks of computers.
		stacks of computers.
		tacks of computers.
3. Computer scientists need caffeine		after lunch.
	X	any time.
		in the morning.
<ol> <li>Scientists next to the coffee pot were happy because they always</li> </ol>	X	saw when there was coffee.
		smelled the fresh coffee.
		watched the coffee machine run.
5. Scientists worked on a new program because they wanted to	X	develop a fairer system.
		earn more money.
		study marketing.
6. In 1993 these scientists developed		a new version of Skype.
		an audio version of Skype.
	X	an early form of Skype.
7. Paul Jardetzky* worked		in video stores.
	X	on video storage.
		on video stories.
8. Paul wrote software to grab		cameras.
		film files.
	X	images.
9. Quentin Stafford-Fraser* wrote soft- ware to	X	display an image.
		play a video file.
		point a camera.
10. The image displayed was updated once every		free minute.
	X	three minutes.
		two minutes.

11. Now scientists		had time to chat online.
	X	knew when to go for a cup.
		saw their colleagues at work.
12. The new system was ideal for		all of the scientists.
	X	few of the scientists.
		most of the scientists.
13. Martin Johnson* used server soft- ware to		identify viruses online.
	X	show images online.
		write messages online.
14. With Martin's new software other computers could copy images	X	from his server.
		of his server.
		on his server.
		how much the coffee was.
15. Soon people knew		how the coffee tasted.
	X	when the coffeepot was half full.
		movies.
16. In 1993, most web servers provided		sound.
	X	text.
17. Martin's software displayed different coffee		cups.
		machines.
	X	quantities.
18. Publishing images online was	X	documented.
		exciting.
		ignored.
19. The coffee pot interested people in		Cambridge.
		Europe.
	X	the world.
20. The Trojan Room became		a café for tourists.
	X	popular with tourists.
		the tourist information centre.
* Names of computer scientists o Quentin Stafford-Fraser (British accent) * Names of computer scientists o Paul Jardetzky (American accent)

• Martin Johnson