

Grammar / the simple past – ANSWER KEY –

A very helpful dog.

Hi! It is me again, Winston. Today, I want to tell you how I sometimes help Mr Goodwill. Normally, my human¹ is a very clever man, but sometimes he needs my help. Let me tell you about last Monday: First, my human set his alarm clock to 6 o'clock. That is too early. So, I helped him and changed the time on the alarm clock and we slept until 9 o'clock. I liked it a lot, but he didn't like it and was in a hurry. That is why my human didn't make me any breakfast, so I had to make my own breakfast. I jumped onto the table and knocked over some bowls and plates. My human grumbled² and didn't laugh about it, but I was happy – cheesecake and strawberries for breakfast – what a start into a new day! My human was in a bad mood. So, I wanted to cheer him up³ and play with him. I took his car keys and ran down the street and I think my human really liked it, because he came out and started to play with me. He shouted: "Winston, where are you?", "Where are my keys?" I hid behind a tree – woof woof! Then he looked around in the garden and I quickly went inside again. We ran around the house for 10 minutes until I became tired and until my human was all red in his face, probably⁴ because he was happy again. I am a very helpful dog!

Well done ☺!

Das SIMPLE PAST

Mit dem SIMPLE PAST (= einfache Vergangenheit) kannst du über Vergangenes berichten, z.B. wenn Du eine Geschichte erzählen möchtest oder über etwas berichten möchtest, das du in der Vergangenheit erlebt hast.

Mit Zeitangaben wie: last week, yesterday, three years ago oder auch nur one minute ago kannst du sagen, wann etwas geschehen ist oder wann jemand etwas getan hat.

Regelmäßige Verben:

- Es gibt regelmäßige Verbformen (z.B. changed, jumped) – diese findest du in der obigen Tabelle auf der linken Seite.
Regelmäßige Formen werden gebildet, indem du die Endung -ed an den Infinitiv (= Grundform des Verbs) anhängst.

Achtung es gibt ein paar Besonderheiten:

- to change - changed → das stumme -e fällt weg (nicht change~~d~~)
- ein -y nach einem Konsonant wird zu -ied: to hurry – hurried
- nach einem einzelnen, betonten Vokal wird der Konsonant verdoppelt:
to plan – planned, to stop – stopped
- nach -d und -t wird die Endung -ed [ɪd] ausgesprochen

Unregelmäßige Verben:

- Einige der unregelmäßigen Verbformen (z.B. sleep – slept, go – went / have – had) stehen in der rechten Tabellenhälfte.
- Jedes unregelmäßige Verb hat eine eigene Form im simple past. Diese Formen musst du auswendig lernen. Die Liste der gängigsten unregelmäßigen Verben findest du in deinem Englischbuch oder in einem Lexikon.

⌚ Verneinte Aussagesätze

Im simple past kannst du natürlich auch verneinte Aussagen machen, dazu benutzt du für alle Personen (I, you, he, she, it, we, you, they) nur eine Form: didn't

⌚ He didn't like it.

⌚ He didn't make me any breakfast.

⌚ He didn't laugh.

- Sätze im simple past werden mit didn't + infinitive verneint.

Winston's diary

Yesterday was (be) a great day. Mr Goodwill and I slept (sleep) very long. Then I made (make) my own breakfast – cheesecake and dog food – yummy! Mr Goodwill didn't like (not + like) my breakfast. He ate (eat) muesli. Then we played (play) hide and seek⁵ with Mr Goodwill's car keys. I love that game. Mr Goodwill didn't find (not + find) it funny yesterday. He was (be) angry with me and shouted (shout): "Winston, where are my keys? I have to go to school!" So, I gave (give) his keys back because I love school. I jumped (jump) up and down happily and barked (bark) loudly. Mr Goodwill laughed (laugh) and started (start) the car. Meanwhile⁶, I took (take) his favourite pen, so we can play hide and seek at school again – I know he loves that game. Woof, woof!

⁵ to play hide and seek = Verstecken spielen

⁶ meanwhile = währenddessen
